IRRIGATION SYSTEM TO COST $8,000,000.

A distinguished party of English gentlemen arrived in Bow Island on Monday in their private car "Oceanic". The members of the party are connected with the Canadian Agency Limited, London, England, and comprise the President of the Southern Alberta Land Co., Mr. A. M. Grenfell, his brother Mr. R. N. Grenfell, Mr. Athelstan-Johnson, Major St. Aubyn, and Captain D. C. Newton of Montreal, as well as Mr. H. M. Evans, Edmonton. The object of their visit, we understand, is to look over the land and inspect the progress made with the irrigation system now under construction by that company. The Canadian Agency Ltd., was formed in 1900 by Mr. A. M. Grenfell in England to specialize in Canadian business. Since its formation four years ago, Mr. Grenfell has been the means of interesting numerous British capitalists in Canadian projects, especially in the west, and more especially in the province of Alberta.

Mr. Grenfell, who is a London banker, has during this period brought nearly fifty million dollars of British money into Canada, and has among other things, done all the financing, amounting to some $8,000,000, for the Southern Alberta Land Co. This large sum of money has been, or will be expended, in developing the resources of the province.

Mr. A. M. Grenfell is son-in-law to Lord Evelyn, Earl Grey, the first wife having been Lady Victoria Grey, and he is now married to the niece of Rt. Hon. Alfred Lyttelton who succeeded the Rt. Hon. Joseph Chamberlain as Colonial Secretary.

Mr. Grenfell is probably the most powerful financier in England in Canadian affairs, and the above mentioned fifty million dollars which he raised for Canada has been divided between the Southern Alberta Land Company, which owns 400,000 acres north of Bow Island, the Western Canada Land Company, which owns about 300,000 acres west of Edmonton, a subsidiary of this company being the Piquette land company. He also owns the Piquette land company, the Dominion Textile company, the bonds of the Lake Superior corporation, the Algoma Central railway, the Nova Scotia Steel and Coal company, and also the debentures of the provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan, and the cities of Regina, Edmonton, Victoria, Sherbrooke, Que., and other cities. He will also be interested with Sir Robert Perks, Bt., in the Georgian Bay canal and the Dominion Dry Docks which has built sites at Quebec, and at St. John, N.B., which will be capable of accommodating the largest men of war or liners in existence.

Before leaving Bow Island on Wednesday on the private car "Oceanic", especially placed at their disposal by Sir Thomas Slingsby, Mr. Grenfell remarked: "The way in which British people view Canada is simply shown by the fact that during the year 1909 they subscribed $100,000,000 in public issues of Canadian bonds and shares, and during the first half of 1910 they subscribed $100,000,000. These amounts do not take into consideration the millions sent to Canada from England for investment in mortgages and in other private forms, for which no statistics are available. I think that these amounts will be far exceeded during the next few years as a greater number of people throughout England, Ireland and Scotland learn of the advantages that Canada offers to invest in the way of high yields and capital safety.

The above named party drove out to the McEvoy ranch, north of Bow Island, on Monday, and left on Wednesday for points west.

PRESENTATION.

The Rev. Frank Hustler, who has been in the south country during the summer and conducting services at the Methodist Church, left here on Tuesday for Edmonton where he will continue his studies. During the time that he has been here Mr. Hustler has made a large circle of friends, and his departure was viewed by them with feelings of sincere regret. This feeling gave vent on Sept. 22 to a very pleasing little ceremony being enacted at the residence of Mr. F. Foley on which date about fifty people assembled and presented Mr. Hustler with a purse of money. Mr. D. M. Garrison, in a few well-chosen words, made the presentation. We understand the people residing in the south country are very anxious to have Mr. Hustler back again with him next summer, and very forward in a petition to the proper quarter with this end in view.

CONCERT.

To inaugurate the opening of their new dance hall, the ladies connected with the Methodist Church, assisted by others, held a most successful concert in their new building on Monday night, and one which was thoroughly enjoyed by the large number of people present. The bandmaster and soloists, L. Wright and Mrs. J. L. Pollett, singing not a little to the enjoyment of the evening.

The musical talent displayed and the excellent singing came as a great surprise to more than one and the hope was generally expressed that it might be their good fortune to attend many such entertainings during the coming winter.

Where all did so well it would be an impossibility upon one part to put the ladies, but this we say with perfect candour, that given such another programme with the same excellent talent the Passengers, connoisseurs as it is, would be far too small for the occasion.

Those contributing to the programme consisted of the following:—Bow Island Band; Miss Mabel Webb, two pianovos solos; Mrs. M. L. Wright and Miss Pearl Hultall, vocal solos, these two ladies also taking part in a duet ladies' quartette, Mrs. Wright, Mrs. Ryan, Miss Hultall and Miss Pollett; solo by Mr. B. L. Jamieson; quartette, Messrs. Jamieson and Hultall; Mrs. Wright and Miss Hultall; address and two recitations by Rev. H. M. Henderson; reading by Miss Pollett; recitation, Miss Johnson; duet, Miss Johnson and Miss Pollett.

IRRIGATED LANDS.

There are 204 private irrigation schemes in Saskatchewan and Alberta, Saskatchewan having 194 and Alberta 210. In addition there are the Canadian Pacific irrigation scheme, the Southern Alberta Land Company, and the Alberta Railway and Irrigation Company.

The Canadian Pacific Irrigation Colony Company has under construction 6,000 miles of main canal as well as a number of subsidiary ditches. This is estimated, will irrigate 1,100,000 acres. The Alberta Railway & Irrigation Co. have 238 miles of canal irrigating 70,000 acres. The South Alberta Land Co. has constructed 77 miles of main canal, and purposes irrigating 275,000 acres. Private farms have under irrigation 56,700 acres in Alberta and 50,282 acres in Saskatchewan. It is estimated that every cubic foot of water carries a capacity for irrigating 100 acres of land.

Professor F. H. Newell, chief of the reclamation bureau of the United States claims that Western Canadian irrigated land will increase in value during the next few years from $30.00 per acre to $200.00 an acre.

A YOUNG OFFENDER.

On Tuesday, at Burdett, before Justices Fletcher and Carothers, Miss Olson, a youth of fifteen years of age, appeared to answer a charge of indecent assault preferred against him by Mrs. M. G. Abbott. The assault was alleged to have taken place at the residence of the complainant, situated north of Bow Island, on Thursday, Sept. 29th. Sgt. Harper of Bow Island effected the arrest. The accused was found guilty and sentenced to two months imprisonment, but owing to his youth the magistrates allowed him to go upon suspended sentence, his father entering into sureties to the amount of $250 for his good behaviour.

DAME FASHION'S DECREES

LOADS and wraps are the first to indicate the trend of fashion for the coming winter, and already it is quite apparent that the extra wrap, which was considered an important feature in the winter outfit. The smart recent fashions, gowns, wraps, and coats are all designed for almost every woman, but with the fashions of the present it always more of less extensive lines are also looked at with the still extreme styles that are so common. The extra piece of gown, so called, though more of a fashion skirt and waist, is not always compatible with a coat, and the same material is a weight of fabric that is too heavy, a skirt and waist is often impossible for an outer garment, being either too heavy or too light. Then there must be the extra wrap, coat or cloak, for there are very few days, in America at all events, during the autumn when the gown without a coat is sufficiently warm.

This has been and is a season when the wearing of coats of all kinds has been most fashionable, and while many have been of this material suitable for summer there have been many of silk and satin, which are now being made up with an interlining to give more warmth and are also being copied in spirit of self-denial not to yield to their fascinations. A purple velvet evening gown has a deep yoke effect in rows of shirring or cording across the shoulders, the upper part of the sleeves and the fronts, then down the fronts are bands of maroon, the exact shade of the velvet, with a narrow band around the bottom. The model exhibited is in the lighter shade of heliotrope, but would look equally well in any other color except black. If made up in black there would be the risk that it might not be becoming for black maroon next the face is rather a dangerous experiment for most, but the most perfect of complexion, and the great point of this garment is in the trimming and material matching so perfectly. While maroon trimming on the black velvet has been attempted, but the result is too gaudy to be successful unless the original model is modified by omitting the band around the bottom of the skirt and merely trimming the collar, revers and front with the white.

Use of the details of fashion with this is to be the cloak and wrap to match the evening gown. It must be admitted the effect is far better when all does correspond, the slippers, gloves and wrap all the same shade; but, again, this is a matter of personal choice, and the contrast can be selected if so desired with the delightful consciousness that fashion is decrees. Just here is where the really and truly elegant woman has a chance to prove her ability. If she has selected some one color as becoming and gowns herself into it is that color, then the same wrap will look well over her different gowns, while slippers, stockings and all the details of her dress will answer just as well for her gown as for another, and it is extraordinary how much money can be saved by keeping to the one color scheme.

The raglan sleeve is still a well selected feature of the loose driving coat, and is to be used in the more elaborate evening coats, for it has been proved to be most practical, as it prevents the gown from underneath it from becoming mussed or wrinkled, as is sometimes the case with the ordinary sleeve with too tight an armhole. The most remarkable improvement is to be noticed in the manner in which this fashion the raglan sleeve is made. When the fashion was first introduced there was not enough attention paid to the lines (always the lines), and apparently the one and only effect was to have the garment loose enough on the shoulders. Now the shoulders are always carefully fitted, the material, both back and front, is draped, and the result is extraordinary. The most common fault in the raglan sleeve is that the fabric is too graceful. The sleeve is mysteriously dealt with, often not appearing like a sleeve until at the wrist, for the upper part is combined with the back and front in some strange fashion—that is, when for an evening wrap, in a day coat the sleeve will be defined, merely the very narrow shoulder being omitted, and thus because the sleeve commences virtually at the wrist, the fabric is very originally designed, this gave too sloping a line, but with the present design it is extremely becoming.

Bustles and shoulder drapery of any sort are among the clothes problems of which the house dressmaker should be very wary, for although, if managed properly, they will offer her much aid in disguising faults of the figure and the neck, they also are responsible for many ugly misadventures, gowns whose materials and general construction promised well, and which were well made, were spoiled by the addition of a good deal of dress.

For those whose shoulders are sloping, whose necks are long and whose general figure is too drooping, the shoulder
